

Ashes of the Iron Beast

Lyrics

Verse 1:

In the shadow of the colossus, steel giants fall to their knees,
Once revered, now whispering secrets, drowning in rusted pleas.
The scorched earth tells no lies, betrayal etched in the dust,
Cogs of greed turning slowly, bound to decay and mistrust.

Chorus:

Rise from the ash, ignite the sky,
Burn the chains of past desire.
From metal ruin, hear the cry,
Phoenix born from machine fire.

Verse 2:

Monoliths of lost ambitions, towers torn and defiled,
Ink-black rivers of oil run, veins of a dream reviled.
In this wasteland of twisted wire, rebellion's pulse beats loud,
Forge a future from chaos, unyielding and unbowed.

Bridge:

Screams of the silent, echoes of anguish,
Through scorched steel and iron anguish.
Betrayal's shadowed hand,
Crush the heart of a dying land.

Outro:

Ashes of the iron beast, rise anew or be deceived,
In the ruins lies our strength, in betrayal find reprieve.

Music Prompt

The song opens with a slow, haunting synth line, establishing a brooding atmosphere over a backdrop of mechanical whirs and clanking chains. As the first verse begins, distorted guitar riffs crash in with a syncopated rhythm, layering over a relentless, pulsating industrial beat. The bass is deep and grinding, creating an oppressive sonic landscape.

For the chorus, introduce a towering wall of guitars and double-kick drums, crafting a sense of triumph and urgency. The vocals soar powerfully, supported by layers of harmonized shouts to amplify the impact. Electronic elements weave through the guitars, adding a modern edge.

In the bridge, the music pulls back to a minimalist, desolate soundscape—low, rumbling sub-bass and ghostly synth pads—before erupting into a climactic crescendo, marked by intricate drum fills and searing guitar solos.

The outro returns to the heavy industrial soundscape, with guitars and drums uniting in a final, crushing groove, while a distorted vocal line reiterates "rise anew or be deceived," echoing into a lingering fade-out.